"Schoolchildren are to be bombarded with homosexual references in maths, geography and science lessons as part of a Government-backed drive to promote the gay agenda." \(Melanie Phillips \(Daily Mail\) 24 January 2011\)

. Ms Phillips received

for publishing this article from gay lobbyists.

"As part of a Government-backed drive to 'celebrate the gay community', maths problems could be introduced that involve gay characters." \(Kate Loveys \(Daily Mail\), 23 January 2011\)

The point to note is that there is NO REASON to tell kids ANYTHING about homosexuality (except by parents who can warn them to stay away)!

It might be legal, but it is grossly immoral and dangerous. For homosexuals, kids are for grooming!!

No child should be taught anything at all about this evil lifestyle. AIDS is just one reason why not.

Also, the idea behind this, coming from Cameron's gay government, is to include so many references to 'gay', that children think it is just normal. Once government gets kids to accept it as normal, it will be much easier to groom them for their future roles as new homosexuals. Don't fall for this camp idea...it is just another way to present propaganda to kids. Nor should schools be involved in any of this - schools should be for teaching basic education topics, not for promoting wicked immoralities.
